INTRODUCTION

This Handbook is prepared annually as a supplement to the Calendar of the Faculty of Arts & Science, providing additional information about the Department of Anthropology, its resources, programs and courses, for information only. The Calendar of the Faculty of Arts & Science is the official statement of the Faculty's policies and practices. The content is accurate as of the date of printing. The Department reserves the right to make changes without notice.

ANTHROPOLOGY:

Anthropology examines the complexity and diversity of human experience, past and present, through evolutionary, archaeological, social, cultural, and linguistic perspectives. As such, Anthropology is a truly interdisciplinary venture that spans the natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities. This broad mandate has led to the division of the discipline into three broad areas of research: Archaeology; Evolutionary Anthropology; and the study of Society, Culture and Language.

Archaeologists study the material remains of the human past. Archaeological methods range widely, from the study of artifacts to the analysis of plant and animal remains, and Archaeological research covers a vast expanse of time from the earliest stone tools to the complex record left by modern industrial society. Archaeologists also grapple with a range of theoretical issues including material culture, culture change, identity, and ritual. Many archaeologists today also work in collaboration with local communities and engage with the questions of archaeological ethics.

Evolutionary Anthropology is the study of the biological diversity of humans, the history of this diversity, and the biological relationships between humans and non-human primates. Major foci in Evolutionary Anthropology include Human Biology, the study of modern humans; Osteology, the study of the human skeleton; Paleoanthropology, the study of human evolution; and Primatology, the study of non-human primates. Evolutionary anthropologists integrate biological and social variables in their explanations of the effects of evolution on humans and other primates.

At the core of the study of Society, Culture and Language is the question of how we humans organize our lives together, and why we do so in such vastly different ways. The orientation is global and contemporary. We explore social relations: relations between kin and neighbours, between genders and generations, between ethnic groups and nations, between rich and poor, between people and the natural environment that sustains them, and between people and their gods. We also explore the production and communication of meanings through rituals, images, memories, symbols and linguistic codes. Topics include environment, power, ideology, identity, subjectivity, media, sexuality, ethics, affect, activism, health, cities, work and international development.

COURSES IN ANTHROPOLOGY can be effectively combined with courses in many other disciplines. Anthropology also offers a unique grounding for interests and studies in other Social Sciences, the Life Sciences, Health Sciences and Humanities.

COLLOQUIUM SERIES: Check the Anthropology Department notice boards for interesting lectures which are quite often scheduled for Friday afternoons. Upcoming lectures are also posted on the web: <https://www.anthropology.utoronto.ca/events/colloquia-brownbags-and-seminars>

COUNSELLING: Students are urged to seek counselling on any unclear academic matters, either from their College Registrar (degree requirements) or the Departmental Student Counsellor (program requirements).

Josie Alaimo, the Undergraduate Program Administrator and Student Counsellor, is available to answer queries and provide guidance at the Undergraduate Office, Room 258, Anthropology Building (Tel: 416-978-6414). Faculty members may be consulted during their office hours or by appointment. Details of the requirements for completion of Arts & Science degrees are listed in the Faculty of Arts & Science Faculty Calendar (the Arts & Science Faculty Office, Room 1006 Sidney Smith Hall, 100 St. George Street, Toronto, M5S 3G3).

Please consult the Family Care Office should you require assistance with personal family matters at: Koffler Student Services Centre, 214 College St., 416-978-0951, web address: <http://www.familycare.utoronto.ca>.

The ANTHROPOLOGY STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION (ASA) is the official student union for Anthropology undergraduates at the University of Toronto St. George. The ASA, which is governed by an executive board composed of annually elected undergraduate students, acts as a medium between the Department of Anthropology and Anthropology undergraduates by representing undergraduate students on a number of departmental boards and committees as well as to the department administration directly. The ASA's main objective is to continuously improve the quality of the undergraduate experience for Anthropology undergraduates at the University of Toronto St. George.

The ASA houses many valuable resources for undergraduates, which include: a past test and syllabi database, student feedback on courses and instructors, information on anthropological and archaeological field-schools/projects, information on graduate programs, and more. The ASA awards an annual $250 scholarship to an undergraduate student wishing to conduct Anthropological/Archaeological research or fieldwork and also prints an annual journal of undergraduate papers in Anthropology and its subdisciplines.

The ASA also hosts a number of academic and entertainment events including: academic lecture seminars highlighting the research conducted by department professors and graduate students, a graduate school information seminar for undergraduates considering graduate studies, field-school information seminars, games nights, pub nights, an end-of-the-year semi-formal, and more.

The ASA encourages all Anthropology undergraduates and those interested in Anthropology to register with us. Registered members will receive our weekly newsletter and updates on ASA activities, and will be eligible for receiving additional resources from the ASA. More information on the ASA and how to register can be found on our website, Facebook group, and Twitter, and students are further encouraged to contact the ASA via email or phone, or by visiting the ASA office directly (see below).

ARCHAEOLOGY AT THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

The Archaeology Programs focus on the study of past human societies primarily through their material remains, or “material cultures”. Archaeologists explore the nature of and changes in past cultures around the world through survey, excavation and analyses of stone tools, pottery, bones, plant remains, architecture and other cultural residues. Some of the major research foci of archaeologists are the nature of hunter-gatherer technology and economy in the Pleistocene, the origins of agriculture, pastoralism, urbanism and politically complex states, the workings of ancient exchange systems, and the development of class-based and gender-based political and economic inequalities in complex societies. Working archaeologists often specialize geographically, chronologically or thematically. Classical archaeologists, for example, specialize in the cultures of the ancient Greco-Roman world, while paleoethnobotanists explore ways that botanical residues of ancient and prehistoric cultures can inform us about their economies and social systems. The specialist programs allow students to explore archaeology in a multidisciplinary setting.

Students in either specialist program should consult with the program coordinator or faculty members in their intended areas of specialization for advice on the selection of courses. Those intending to go on to graduate studies in Departments such as Art History or Near and Middle Eastern Civilizations should pay particular attention to language requirements at the graduate level.

The Archaeology Specialist (Arts program) is designed for students in the Social Sciences or Humanities, who may be interested in such fields as prehistoric, Aegean, Classical, historical and Near and Middle Eastern archaeology. See details below. Students interested in pursuing graduate studies should combine it with study of the ancient and modern languages relevant to their primary area of interest.

The Archaeology Major (Arts program) is designed so that students learn archaeological methods, ethics, theory as well as practical skills most important in archaeology, and it may be combined with a program in Humanities or a program in the Sciences.

ARCHAEOLOGY PROGRAMS

Enrolment in the Specialist, Major and Minor programs is limited to students that meet the admission requirements. Please note that the admission requirements vary by program. See below for the admission requirements. Students may enroll at the end of First Year or at any later time if they meet the admission requirements.

Only one Archaeology program may be selected.

ARCHAEOLOGY SPECIALIST PROGRAM (Arts program)

Enrolment Requirements:

ANT200Y1 with a final mark of at least 70%.

Completion Requirements:

(11.0 credits, including at least 4.0 credits at the 300+ level and 1.0 credit at the 400 level)

First Year:

1. ANT200Y
2. Statistical Requirement: GGR270H (Geography pre- or co-requisites waived for Archaeology and Anthropology students); or 0.5 credit from STA220H, STA221H, STA247H, STA248H, STA255H, STA257H, STA261H, or ANTC35H3 (at UTSC)
3. ANT100Y or CLA160H. If CLA160H is taken, students must take an additional 0.5 credit from the following: CLA210H, CLA230H, CLA231H; FAH206H, FAH207H; GGR100H, GGR101H; NMC262H

Upper Years:

4. ARH205H, ARH309H, ARH312Y, ANT411H
5. Field Requirement: ANT311Y or ARH306Y or NMC261Y0 or ARH361Y or ARH361H or ANT418H5 (at UTM). If ARH361H or ANT418H5 is taken, students must take an additional 0.5 credit from ANT/ARH/HAJ/JAL/JAH/JAR/JGA.
6. 5.0 credits from Groups A and B, of which 2.0 credits must be from Group A and 2.0 credits must be from Group B and 1.0 credit from either group.

Note that students may substitute ARH495H1 (Research Practicum) for 0.5 credit of this requirement (assignment to Group A or B to be determined by Undergraduate Coordinator).

ARCHAEOLOGY MAJOR PROGRAM (Arts program)

Enrolment Requirements: ANT100Y or ANT200Y with a final mark of at least 65%.

Completion Requirements:

(7.0 credits, including at least 2.0 credits at the 300+ level and 0.5 credit at the 400-level)

First Year:

1. ANT200Y
2. ANT100Y or CLA160H. If CLA160H is taken, students must take an additional 0.5 credit from the following: CLA210H, CLA230H, CLA231H; FAH206H, FAH207H; GGR100H, GGR101H; NMC262H

Upper Years:

3. ARH205H and ARH309H
4. 1.0 credit from: ARH306Y, ARH312Y, ARH361Y, ARH361H, ANT311Y, NMC261Y0, NMC465H, NMC466H
5. 2.5 credits from: Group A
6. 0.5 credit from: Group B

ARCHAEOLOGY MINOR PROGRAM (Arts program)

Enrolment Requirements: ANT200Y with a final mark of at least 65%.

Completion Requirements:

(4.0 credits, including at least 1.0 credit at the 300- or 400-levels)

1. ANT200Y
2. ARH205H and ARH309H
3. 1.5 credits from Group A
4. 0.5 credit from Group B

Note: If ARH312Y is completed, it will be considered a Group A course.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1- I am currently registered at another university and I would like to transfer to U of T's Dept. of Anthropology. How do I go about it?

You should contact U of T's Enrolment Services at 172 St. George Street, Toronto, Ontario, M5R 0A3. Phone: (416) 978-2190. Website: <http://www.future.utoronto.ca/>

2- I am currently registered at another University and I would like to be a visiting student at U of T. How do I go about it?

You should contact the Registrar's Office, or equivalent, at your home University and follow the procedures to obtain a letter of permission. At the same time, you should contact the Visiting Students Office at U of T. Their contact information is: phone number (416) 978-5880; e-mail: visiting.students@utoronto.ca Website: <http://www.wdw.utoronto.ca/visit/>
You must follow both institutions' deadlines.

3- I am currently an Anthropology student at U of T and one of the ANT courses I would like to take is full. How can I register in this course?

Course registration is done through ACORN for all courses (except "E" courses), on a first come first served basis, according to the priorities and enrolment controls indicated in the Faculty Timetable. If a course is full, you can add yourself to the waitlist.

4- I am currently an Anthropology student at U of T's St. George Campus and the course I need to take to graduate at the end of this academic year is full. How can I register in this course?

In this case, you should contact your College Registrar's office to verify if you qualify under the Dean's Promise category (please note that this policy is ONLY available to Arts & Science, St. George Campus students). If so, you should see the Undergraduate Program Administrator/Student Counsellor, at the Department's Undergraduate Office (Anthropology Building, Room 258) to verify that you must take that course in order to fulfill your program requirements, in order to be able to graduate at the end of this academic year. If this is the case, and you have been unable to add the course through ACORN by the end of the ADD period, contact the Undergraduate Office.

5- I am an Anthropology student at U of T's St. George campus and I would like to study at another university during the academic year (Fall or Winter terms, full year). How do I get authorization?

Please contact the Centre for International Experience. Their phone number is (416) 978-1800.
Website: <http://cie.utoronto.ca/>

6- I am an Anthropology student at U of T's St. George campus and I would like to study at another Canadian or U.S.A. university during the Summer Term. How do I get authorization?

Please visit the following website for instructions on how to apply for a letter of permission: <https://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/faculty-registrar-services/transfer-credit>

7- I am an Anthropology student at U of T's St. George campus, and I would like to study at another university abroad during the Summer Term. How do I get some re-assurance that I will get Transfer credits for successfully completed courses upon my return?

Please contact the Anthropology Undergraduate Office, AP258, to have your course(s) assessed (submit detailed course descriptions and institutional information).

8- I have applied for graduation, but I am not sure that I have completed all my Anthropology/Archaeology program requirements. Who should I contact?

To confirm if you have completed your Anthropology/Archaeology program requirements you should see Josie Alaimo, the Undergraduate Program Administrator/Student Counsellor at AP258, (416) 978-6414, josie.alaimo@utoronto.ca

To verify if you have completed your U of T degree requirements, please contact your College Registrar's Office.

9- Where can I find more information about employment and careers?

The Career Centre is dedicated to helping students and recent alumni (up to 2 years) map out the career path best suited for them and putting them in touch with work opportunities. A personalized, student-centred website provides 24-hour access to thousands of part-time, summer, full-time employment and volunteer listings. The Centre's Career Resource Library contains valuable information on career development, further education and employment. The Career Centre is located in the Koffler Student Services Centre, 214 College Street.
